Bunnings says bula! New online store for Fiji goes live

Fijians can now shop a wide range of hardware and home improvement products via the new Bunnings Pacific online store, offering more than 20,000 products.

The new website (bunningspacific.com.fj) brings the Bunnings experience to Fiji through a simple and reliable online offer, delivered directly to customers' doors.

Bunnings Managing Director, Mike Schneider, said the launch reflects a carefully considered approach to serving the local market.

"We are excited to see the new Bunnings Pacific online store up and running, making it easier for customers in Fiji to access a wide range of home improvement and hardware products through a simple and reliable online experience.

"The offer has been built using capabilities we know well - including our supply chain, logistics and expanding digital platform – to give customers more choice, with clear pricing and delivery they can trust.

"We have developed a strong understanding of the Pacific region through many years of servicing the market alongside trusted wholesale partners, and we look forward to continuing to learn from local customers and improving the offer via the new Bunnings Pacific online store over time."

Customers can now browse and purchase around 20,000 curated products across power and hand tools, garden maintenance equipment, electrical items, home security, cleaning products and more.

Orders will be fulfilled from Bunnings' Australian distribution centre and delivered through established international shipping partners, with delivery timeframes clearly communicated at checkout and through order updates.

The offer is a digital-only service. Prices shown include the full cost of delivery, with no additional fees on arrival, and delivery timeframes are clearly communicated at checkout.

Bunnings has a long-standing presence in the Pacific region, built through its commercial wholesale business and strong relationships with trusted organisations, including R.C. Manubhai. The next step complements the existing model, serving more customers in new ways while continuing to support established wholesale partnerships.
