Improved Livability

.pecialist Disability Accommodation (SDA) design category of Improved Liveability refers to housing that has been specifically designed to assist people with sensory, intellectual, or cognitive impairments.

These dwellings are built to enhance physical access and aim to provide a safer and more comfortable environment for residents.

The design standards for Improved Liveability includes features such as clear and unobstructed pathways, good lighting for visibility, and the use of contrasting colours for better perception. To assist with navigation, these homes may feature design elements such as, luminance contrasts and tactile materials on walls, and door frames in internal and external areas.

Additionally, these homes may include assistive technology, and equipment that hope to support the independence and daily living activities of residents.

The goal of Improved Liveability SDA is to create living spaces that not only meets the physical needs of its occupants, but also promotes their well-being by supporting an autonomous lifestyle.

When building to the SDA Improved Liveability guidelines, additional consideration will need to be given to the selection of many materials and products, including:

- Flooring and wall coverings
- Lighting and electrical switches
- Door Furniture and locks
- Smart Home accessories and automation
- Front-of-wall plumbing, tapware and bathroom accessories
- Joinery and benchtops
- Appliances

Door Hardware

Introduction

The SDA Design Standard specifies the following door and door hardware requirements for Improved Liveability builds*:

- Doorways should have a minimum opening clearance of 820mm and have door handles installed at between 900mm to 1100mm above the finished floor level
- All internal doorways should have a level, step-free transition and threshold (maximum vertical tolerance of 3mm vertical or 5mm between abutting surfaces is allowable provided the lip is rounded or bevelled)
- Door handles selected must comply with AS1428.1
- While not a requirement for Improved Liveability builds, door automation provides added safety and security for all occupants
